

Darkling Beetle

Darkling beetle lays eggs. They are so little it can fit in a baby hand. They are white. They are so tiny it can get lost.

The eggs hatch and they are meal worms.
The meal worm has dark and light brown on there back .

They turn into a pupa. They do not eat or drink. When someone holds the pupa it starts to wiggle not the top but in the bottom.

They turn into a darkling beetle. And then they lay eggs and it starts all over.
