

Madagascar Hissing Cockroach

I studied the Madagascar Hissing cockroach and I think it is the creepiest creature on earth. I think it is creepy because it makes a hissing noise. Also, the females hold their baby's in their bodies.

They live on forest floors. They ram one another with their horns. They also don't fly because they don't have wings. These are all the reasons why I think the Madagascar Hissing cockroach is the creepiest creature on earth.
