

Lions by Madison and Jade

Lions are the only cats that live in groups which are called prides. Prides are family units that may include up to three males and a dozen or so females. Young lions don't help to hunt until they are about a year old. All of a prides lionesses are related and female cubs typically stay with their moms.

Young males even leave and only male lions have manes.

